

Assistive Technology at The Kildonan School

	Dragon NaturallySpeaking Voice recognition software for the Windows operating system. Website: www.nuance.com/naturallyspeaking/
	MacSpeech Dictate Voice recognition software for the Macintosh operating system. Website: www.macspeech.com/
	Inspiration Software for visual mapping, outlining, writing, and making presentations. Website: www.inspiration.com/inspiration
	Kurzweil 3000 Comprehensive reading, writing, and learning software for struggling readers. Website: www.kurzweiledu.com/
 iFlash	iFlash A virtual flash-card program made exclusively for the Macintosh operating system. Website: www.loopware.com/iflash/
	Amazon Kindle Amazon's electronic book reader; contains a text-to-speech utility. Website: www.amazon.com/Kindle
	Intel Reader A portable device that takes photographs of printed materials and converts them into digital text, allowing for audio playback. Website: www.intel.com/healthcare/reader/index.htm

For more information, please contact Jamie Martin, Coordinator of Assistive Technology, The Kildonan School – jmartin@kildonan.org.